

Is your school rights respecting?

UNICEF is running a child rights education summer course in July. If you want to bring the Convention on the Rights of the Child to life for your students, sign up now! You will explore themes of child participation, diversity and inclusion, community, and global citizenship.

This course is for teachers of all classes, in all types of schools. It is free to participate and entitles you to EPV days. Places are limited. Sign up now!

JOIN OUR SUMMER COURSE

Email lydia@unicef.ie

Location: Online

Cost: Free

Dates: 1st - 30th July 2021

Online Learning Platform

The course will be hosted on Agora. Participants will need to register for a free account with Agora to do the course. Access details will be emailed to the participants by the e-tutor a week in advance of the course start date.

Course Modules

The five modules include: The Convention on the Rights of the Child; Rights Respecting Classroom; Child Participation; Global Citizenship; Whole School Approach. Participants will receive the enrollment key to enter each module when the previous one is completed

Time

The Department of Education requires a minimum 20 hours participation with the course content. A minimum 15 of these hours must be online. Participant online engagement will be recorded. A minimum of five hours participation will be done offline, such as reading and course assignments. The course is not live, so participants can work at their own pace between 1st – 30th July. Some people do it in less than a week, others take the full month.

Assessment

There will be a reflection assignment at the end of each module such as developing lesson plans and contributing to discussion forums. Participants will also be required to keep a learning log as they progress through the modules.

This course is funded by the European Union's Rights, Equality and Citizenship Programme (2014-2020). The content of this course represents the views of the author only and is his/her sole responsibility. The European Commission does not accept any responsibility for use that may be made of the information it contains."