

GROUP 3: ASSETS WORTH MORE THAN $2,200

Workshop 3: Our Choices

Farzana

My name is Farzana and I am from Pakistan. When I reached puberty, my family forced me to marry. I am now 17 and already have 2 children. It hurts me a lot as I wanted to study and make something of myself. Larger families often sell their daughters because it means there is one less mouth to feed.

See Farzana's video here

"I don't want my daughter to have to marry as a child. I want her to study. I feel like I lost my childhood and believe I could be a better mother if I had the chance to be educated."

Pakistan?

---

---

---

---

---

How does child marriage violate the rights of young girls?

---

---

---

---

---

---

How can Farzana work to ensure that her daughter is also not a victim of child marriage?

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

In your society, do you feel like boys and girls are equally valued?

---

---

---

---

---

---